The venue of the conference

- The Faculty of Electrical Engineering (FEE) was founded in 1919 as a unit of the Technical Faculty of the University of Ljubljana.

- The main mission of the Faculty is the education of electrical engineering experts and research work, which are closely intertwined.

- The field of electrical engineering has come a long way from being simply the science of electrical current and voltage.

- Today, alongside electronics and power engineering, the Faculty is also active in the fields of telecommunications and automation.

- All fields are integrated with computer and IT sciences, including the most up-to-date communications tools, Internet developments and multimedia solutions.
